Dan & Debbie Willoughby Update

Dear Beloved Supporters,

As we find ourselves at the close of January '24, we are compelled to share our heartfelt gratitude for your unwavering prayers and support. Our recent missionary endeavors have been marked by God's grace and your fervent intercession. The Ukraine trip unfolded seamlessly, and we are thankful for God's protection and provision throughout the journey. The Christmas concert series, a collaborative effort of three churches, not only showcased musical talents but also effectively conveyed the Gospel to a diverse audience. A heartwarming Christmas meal for the hearing impaired, displaced for the second year, brought joy and the spirit of giving through treats and gift cards. Our New Year's Eve celebration with Spanish-speaking church families beautifully reflected the unity we share in Christ, transcending language barriers. Attending a Biblical counseling seminar, we were enriched by the emphasis on the sufficiency of God's Word. As we lift up prayer requests for Baby Emet's ongoing health journey and the challenges faced by those under our guidance, we also seek your prayers for the hearing impaired, particularly in their job searches and spiritual growth. Despite health struggles and widespread sickness, we praise God for His faithfulness. We extend our deepest appreciation for your continued prayers and support—thank you for "holding the rope" alongside us in this mission.

In Christ's Love,

Daniel and Debbie Willoughby

The Genesis Flood - Henry Morris & John Whitcomb

This seminal work defined the science and Bible debate in the 20th century. If Genesis is true, then the Flood and its after-effects must explain most stratigraphic and fossil evidence. Drs. Morris and Whitcomb brought their scientific and theological expertise to bear on the question of the biblical account of a worldwide flood and how it aligns with earth's history written in the stones.
